

Ralph & Vicki Cianciarulo

Vicki Cianciarulo, of Lanark, Illinois, is an experienced bowhunter, an enthusiastic nature photographer, the better half of "North America's Favorite Hunting Couple," and co-host of the award-winning "Archer's Choice" and "The Choice" television shows alongside her spouse, Ralph Cianciarulo. Vicki has earned the title of taking the largest wild white-tailed deer by a female on camera, with her Colorado buck scoring over 200 inches. Vicki also has to her credit numerous black bears, caribou, moose, dall sheep, whitetails, mule deer, antelope, a turkey Grand Slam, many different African species, and much more. Vicki's history includes outfitting and guiding for both bear and deer, serving on conservation boards and editing and producing television shows. Between the hustle and bustle of hunting trips, interviews, seminar appearances and everyday office work, Vicki still does a great job of balancing her home life with their son, RJ, and she thanks God everyday for all she has been given. Talking to anyone in the industry, they will tell you that Vicki and Ralph have never changed and have always remained as they were from the beginning.

Ralph Cianciarulo, of Lanark, Illinois, is a well-known international bowhunter, a noted videographer, a seminar speaker, and a TV personality for the Outdoor Channel. "North America's Favorite Hunting Couple," Ralph and Vicki have worked from the bottom up to earn a reputation that is second to none in the hunting industry. They scout, hang stands and do what we all do, just hunt! Ralph is co-host of the No. 1 bowhunting television show on the Outdoor Channel, "Archer's Choice" and "The Choice."

Ralph discovered bowhunting at a very young age and has held it close to his heart ever since. He has taken a dream from an early age and made it a reality - hunting all over the world; bowhunting nearly everything you can imagine. From owning his own pro shop to where he is today, he knows what it takes to make it happen. Traveling year round, and through the seminars, DVD's and the TV shows that reach millions of people, Ralph's message has never changed... "It's more important to promote the sport of hunting to the entire family, no matter what the weapon you choose, just hunt!"
